MVC 2005 budget approved

by Jodi Styner

Mountain View County Council approved its 2005 budget Monday, after taking 10 days to review line-by-line expenditures.

No amendments were made to the budget, which was first presented April 14, but not all Councillors were happy with the motion to pass it.

Councillor Arnie Shea made the lone opposition vote, saying there are too many internal inefficiencies that need to be worked out before he can support the figures.

"You're not going to approve a budget when you know there's 30 per cent inefficiencies," he told Council. "How can you?"

Shea said the County lacks a concrete plan for the $1.1 million increase in Public Works initiatives outlined in the budget and thinks the money would be better off in a contingency fund.

"What frustrates the devil out of me is how many computer games are on our County computers," Shea added.

"These are the kind of inefficiencies we've got to get to. If we eliminate the games we might get another 10 per cent efficiencies out of these departments."

But County Commissioner Harold Johnsrude said all employees have signed a computer use policy that he believes they are following.

Shea also voted against a motion to approve the tax rate bylaw, saying he first wants to hear what recommendations come out of the corporate review meeting with George Cuff today.

The motion required a unanimous vote, so it will be brought to a third reading at the next regular council meeting in May, delaying the distribution of tax notices.

Greg Wiens, Director of Finance, said tax rates were designed so that if a property had the average market growth in their assessment value they will pay the same amount of taxes as they did last year.

The mill rate was reduced from 3.72 to 3.49 in order to minimize tax increases.

"The mill rate has dropped enough that the average person will see zero increase," Reeve Kemmere said.

"Some people could see a $50-$100 increase, and some could see a $50-$100 decrease, but the average homeowner will see zero increase, the key word being average."

Last year's tax stabilization deferred taxes to 2005, so people can expect that to be collected this year.

Councillor Liz Negropontes said $20,000 in taxes are outstanding from last year already and she expects that to be an ongoing problem due to BSE and drought conditions.

"People are getting pushed up against the wall," she said. "We've got all these initiatives pushing for rural areas to stay rural. Is there nothing we can do to help soften this tax blow on these people who are going to be dinged again?"

But Reeve Kemmere said that creates an issue of catch up.

"If we keep deferring taxes we end up getting behind the ball further and further all the time and it all just grows on us," he said.

But Johnsrude said Council can make amendments to the tax rate in extraordinary situations.

"They can deal with it even after passing the tax rate bylaw, before the notices go out near the end of June," he said.

Councillor Kathy Blain said the nearly $1 million the county received from new growth taxation should be used to cushion the tax rate and Negropontes agreed.

"We've got to keep people safe in this community," she said. "You're driving them out with taxes and we're bringing in the big bucks," she said.

It isn't expected that Cuff's report will affect the tax rate bylaw, but some recommendations may require budget changes.

But Reeve Kemmere expects the recommendations will have a more significant impact on the 2006 budget.

Teachers, school board reach memorandum agreement

by Shawne Mohl

After months of negotiations teachers within Chinook's Edge School Division (CESD) will be voting on a contract, that if accepted will see local teachers working under a two-year contract.

CESD and Alberta Teachers Association (ATA) #17 reached a memorandum of agreement, when negotiations concluded last Thursday afternoon, May 5.

The details of the contract, including what type of pay hike teachers are expected to receive, are not being released at this time. Local teachers have been without a contract since August 31, 2004.

According to ATA #17 local Bob Worsfold these details will be announced after a vote is held by both parties. Local teachers were expected to vote on the deal today, May 10 and the CESD Board is expected to vote on it this Wednesday, May 11.

Worsfold sounded pleased to finally have a contract signed, however, he sounded as if he was hoping for more to be agreed upon.

"Overall, under the circumstances it's the best we can do," Worsfold said. "It's a two year deal - for this year and next year."

In the past the Board and CESD have only signed one year contracts which would expire almost after being signed, as it would take almost a year for both sides to come to an agreement. Worsfold says that a long-term contract is something that the local ATA is interested in, however common grounds couldn't be found this year to make it longer than just a two year deal.

"We just wanted to try to get a longer term deal, since we were so far into this year already," Worsfold said.

"We would be interested in a longer contract, however, we just couldn't agree on one this year."

CESD Board Chairman Roy Brassard says he is pleased that both sides finally met in the middle at the bargaining table, and says that it will certainly make the 2005 budgeting process easier if the agreement is agreed on and ratified by both sides this week.

"It's one thing to not have enough money, it's another to not know how much you are going to need - so it helps stabilize that," Brassard said. "It's a two year contract. That will bring stability to the Board and budget considerations, but also to teachers. That has to be a win-win."

Brassard also refrained from commenting on the specifics of the contract, but did confirm that there were more than just wage issues involved in the contract.

"There always is to a degree (more involved than wages), but I would rather not talk about it until the teachers have had a chance to ratify it.... It's sufficed to say that it has been a long process of negotiation."

"A two year contract is going to avoid that in the future or that next year. I think it's going to be a good thing," Brassard said.

The local ATA and CESD have had problems in the past bargaining on a local level, however, this go-around Brassard says that both sides acted in a professional manner, which he was extremely proud of.

"The negotiations went very well. Both sides handled themselves extremely professionally," he said. "Both sides came together and I was very pleased with the mutual respect that was exhibited. I am certainly very happy that a memorandum has been signed. It will bring stability to our division for the next two years."

MPR renovations-phase one complete

by Tamara Collins

Didsbury's Multi-Purpose Room (MPR) has seen some big changes in the last couple months, with, phase one of the project being complete.

Talk of renovations to the MPR started several years ago, but were put on the back burner when the funds for the project were not available. Town CAO Brian Irvine thought the project would be more feasible if it was broken down into phases.

Phase one of the project is now complete, giving the MPR a kitchen almost twice the size as before, and a new built in bar. A door was also added to the kitchen, so cooks would not have to travel through the crowds to get outside, as it was before.

"We started the renovations in January, but before that the Town put together a MPR reno committee," said Chris McKenna, Town director of Operations.

"Included in the committee we had four Town employees, two members of the Lions Club, and three local caterers. We held meetings and came up with the design."

The committee included Ray Lea and Al Gingrich from the Lions, Chris McKenna, Brian Wasko, Rob Pelletier, and Dean Mousseau from the Town, and Laura Krebs, Theresa McNeil, and Babs Doyle, caterers.

Construction started on March 21st, and finished in time for the first event, the Fireman's Cabaret which was held this past weekend.

"The capacity has not changed yet," said McKenna. "We could not have done this without the Lions Club, they donated a new dishwasher, all the new cabinets, the microwave, dish carts and a steam table."

In total the project cost $75,000, and $30,000 came from the Lions.

"Now that phase one is complete we can hopefully move on to phase two," said McKenna. "We are not sure of the details of phase two, we are just taking it one at a time."

McKenna says team work was the key is getting the project done.

"It was great to have the Town and the Lions working together," said McKenna. "The key was also having the caterers involved so they could tell us what they wanted."

TAMARA COLLINS
EDITORIAL

This past Friday I had the opportunity to go on a tour of the Prairies to Peaks district, and I have to admit I am still talking about it. I had no idea all the wonderful places that surround us here in Didsbury.

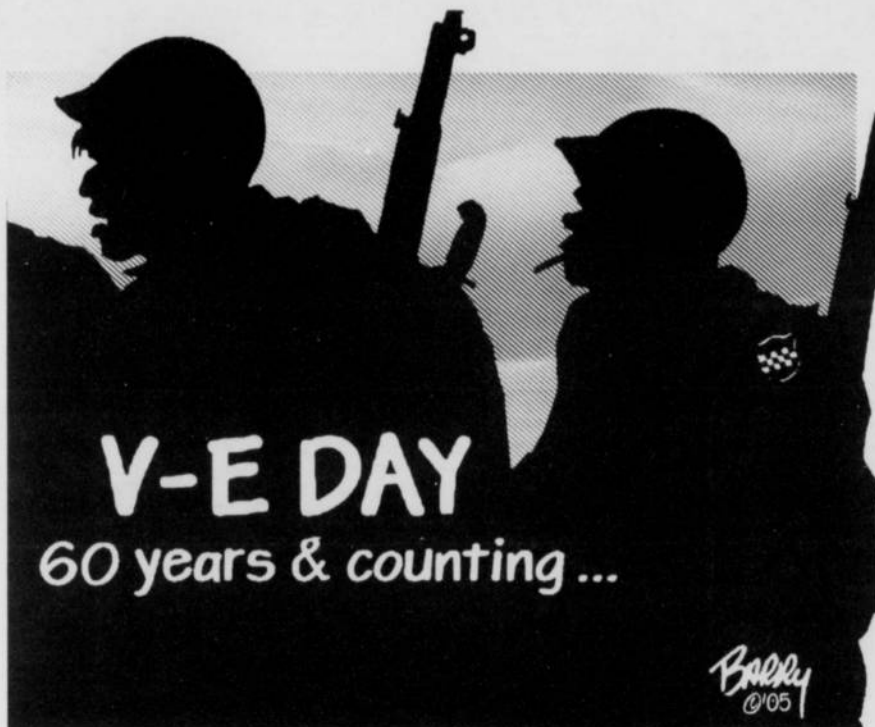

Red Lodge Guest Ranch was just amazing, and so close to home. Did you know that you can camp, horse back ride, eat and everything there, and you are right in the woods.

The Bergen Store was another place I found very cool. In this store there were many very neat items that you do not regularly see. They also have the best beef jerky I have ever had.

PasuFarms was probably my favorite place on the tour. I am embarrassed that I have not been there before. They had many beautiful things in their gift shop, and I hear they have great food.

With all these beautiful places surrounding us we really don't need to travel very far for a vacation or a day trip. I am looking forward to the time when I can go back to these places with friends and show them the beauty that surrounds us in this area.

Wonderings of the heart

by Margaret Fradley

"Perseverance"

Have there been times when small obstacles have kept us from staying in focus, keeping us from staying on track, keeping us from our goals?

A year ago a young very talented skater was confined to hospital with a severe heart condition. Her doctor would not even allow her to get out of bed.

A year later, we watch with bated breath as she competes for the 2005 World Women's figure skating title. During the long program when it seemed as though she might be tiring, her home town crowd revitalized and energized her with their applause, clapping to her music. She remained strong and poised.

A few minutes later, this young skater stood on the podium to receive the gold medal. She has skated the 'skate of her life'. She later told a reporter that her mother was awaiting a kidney transplant and that the year had been one of testing and overcoming one obstacle after another. What a wonderful story, and even those of us watching had tears in our eyes.

We too can be overcomers, and testimonies like the one above can strengthen us, and help us to achieve the seemingly impossible.

MYRON THOMPSON'S COLUMN

Conservatives succeed in amending DNA Bill

After weeks of negotiations with the Liberal government, Conservative members of the justice committee are elated that some of their proposals have been accepted, said Justice Critic Myron Thompson. Yesterday, the House of Commons Justice Committee passed key amendments that will strengthen Canada's DNA data bank.

"Despite the fact that there are still significant loopholes in the law, I am very pleased that the Liberals finally saw the need to amend the bill so that dangerous offenders like Karla Homolka will be compelled to give a DNA sample in the interests of public safety. For years, the Liberals have ignored requests from law enforcement to ensure that past offenders were included in the DNA data bank, thanks to Conservative efforts, we have finally made important progress," stated Thompson.

The Conservative party was able to convince the Justice Minister to expand the retroactive provisions to include any offender who has committed a single murder or sexual offence. Currently, the law only allows retroactive DNA collection for offenders who commit more than one murder or more than one sexual offence, committed at different times. Additionally, Conservative proposals to create a new offence for failing to give DNA samples have been accepted.

Thompson pointed out that the Conservatives will still push for amendments to the legislation that will expand the law's application to all convicted criminals, and make it more difficult for offenders to escape providing DNA samples.

"Given the current political climate on Parliament Hill, I call upon the Minister of Justice to pass this bill through all stages in the House of Commons immediately to ensure that the bill becomes law as soon as possible. The Liberals have had 12 years to act on this, they have no excuse to delay it any further," concluded Thompson.

Alberta Energy and Utilities

Dear Editor;

The Alberta Energy and Utilities Board is the province's energy regulator. We make sure that the discovery, development and delivery of Alberta's energy resources take place in a manner that is fair, responsible and in the public interest.

A big part of our job is to make sure that oil and gas companies working in Alberta comply with the EUB's rules and regulations. Last year, we conducted over 15,000 inspections of energy facilities, we responded to 850 complaints from the public about energy facilities, and we suspended 118 energy facilities and operations that did not adhere to the EUB's tough rules and regulations.

Our job is to make sure that energy development takes place safely. It is also our job to listen to the views of Albertans on energy development and we welcome all public scrutiny of our decisions. In carrying out our business, the EUB regularly consults with Albertans. We frequently send out draft proposals and then ask the public for its opinion. Recently, the EUB released two initiatives for stakeholder input which have resulted in considerable feedback.

On March 10, 2005, we released Bulletin 2005-08 regarding subsurface well spacing issues for public consultation. Then, on March 21, 2005, a new draft process for enforcing our regulations was put forth in Bulletin 2005-09.

Bulletin 2005-08 Subsurface Well Spacing

Subsurface well spacing is linked to the number of wells potentially necessary to recover natural gas from a gas pool. The draft proposal in Bulletin 2005-08 examines subsurface or reservoir issuues only, and focuses on ensuring that Alberta's energy resources are conserved, and not wasted.

Concerns around surface facilities are not changing. Notification and consultation of landowners and residents will continue in process outside the scope of this bulletin. This change focuses landowner and resident consultation to the point in the process when it is most valuable: when applications for surface facilities are being developed, not when underground geology is being investigated.

This subsurface initiative was sent out for public consultation as we want to know what Albertans think of this important initiative.

Bulletin 2005-09 Compliance Assurance

In the spirit of continual regulatory improvement, the EUB is striving to improve the way it enforces its regulations. Compliance is not negotiable for industry and we have a history of taking decisive action when our rules are not met. This commitment will not change.

The goal of compliance assurance initiative is to strengthen public safety, minimize environmental impacts and improve resource conservation. Industry's record of field compliance with the EUB's major rules and regulations has never been better at 98 per cent, but our goal is to continue to improve.

Once again, the compliance assurance bulletin was sent out for public input so we could hear what Albertans thought of our proposed new approach.

The EUB continues to keep pace with record industry activity. Proposals and initiatives such as the subsurface well spacing bulletin and our compliance assurance initiative ensure that our processes are evolving along with the province we all live in. As a strong, fair and responsible regulator, we need to move forward to address current trends and future realities.

Albertans would expect no less.

Yours truly,
Tom Neufeld
Alberta Energy and Utilities Board Communications manager

Parking in Didsbury

I am writing in response to the column, "From the CAO's Desk", that appeared in the May "Town Crier". In that column, the interim CAO, Roy Brown, wrote about a parking survey that had been distributed to business owners regarding downtown parking. Mr. Brown suggested that perhaps there really isn't a parking problem in Didsbury, but perhaps unrealistic expectations, and that a change of attitude might be in order.

About a month ago, I wrote a letter to the editor of the Didsbury Review, contemplating the possibility of more retail stores being open on a Sunday.

Rural patients offered urban care without travel

by Tamara Collins

The Calgary Health Region is once again leading in medical technology and offering geriatric care for patients in rural areas through telehealth.

Telehealth is a new technology which allows doctors and patients to communicate and actually see each other, without either party having to travel. Equipment is set up in both the hospitals and doctors are even able to do a simple exam on the patient.

"Geriatric consultations have been offered to Didsburians via telehealth for almost one year now," said Dr. Heidi Schmaltz, geriatrician. "We started offering them last June 1."

Dr. Schmaltz works at the Peter Lougheed Centre in Calgary and reaches her rural patients through telehealth. The patient only has to travel to their hospital, instead of having to travel to the city.

"At these consultations I act as a consultant, and I provide information to the patient and their families," said Dr. Schmaltz. "I always like to meet with the patient and a family member or care giver. We cover topics such as dementia, confusion, functioning in their environment, and medications."

Dr. Schmaltz is also able to do a basic exam on the patient by asking them to do things and watching them and also through memory tests.

"We are able to manage most issues through telehealth, and if I ever feel the need to see a patient in person we can make those arrangements," said Dr. Schmaltz.

Although the consultations are usually longer than a regular exam, they become shorter after you have a few of them.

Within the past year that these consultations have been offered, five patients from Didsbury have participated in them.

"The patients handle it very

This telehealth equipment gives rural patients the opportunity to have a basic exam with a Geriatrician from Calgary, without the travel.

well, and they communicate well with me," said Dr. Schmaltz. "We definitely have the room to see more patients this way."

Another advantage of the telehealth system is patients are not tired after the travel for their appointment. Also families can get involved a lot more, because they don't have to travel either.

"Family is so important to these assessments because we really rely on the information they give us about the patient," said Dr. Schmaltz. "The patients seem to really enjoy being cutting edge."

In the future the CHR would like to be able to offer this service straight from a patient's home.

"I think that would be really neat to be able to look inside a patient's house," said Dr. Schmaltz. "That would be a tremendous advantage."

Rural physicians are also able to participate in these consultations with their patients.

"It is a great way to transfer the knowledge," said Dr. Schmaltz. "The physician can pass the information on to their next patient, and it is like a domino effect."

ON THIS DAY.....OCTOBER 27, 1938

COMPILED BY GLENDA HUNSPERGER
FOR THE DIDSBURY MUSEUM &
HISTORICAL SOCIETY

Reverend Detwiler was such an important part of early Didsbury.....

Pioneer Minister Passes Away

REV. JACOB B. DETWILER, who was the founder of the M.B.C. Church at Didsbury, passed away at his residence in Kitchener, Ont., on October 22nd, in the 95th year of his life.

Born in Waterloo County, Ont., on October 6th, 1843, he entered the ministry of the Methodist Brethren in Christ Church in 1879 and served in a number of parishes until 1894, when a group of families from Waterloo County migrated to Didsbury and he accompanied them as their spiritual leader. As pastoral support in the early days was meagre, he farmed a homestead, conducted the post office and sold lumber, flour and other supplies to the settlers.

After 17 years' pioneer work as pastor in Didsbury and surrounding district he retired and returned to Ontario. His first wife, Harriet Shantz, predeceased him in 1908, and in 1911 he was married to Margaret Williams, of Winnipeg, who survives him together with two adopted daughters, Mrs. A. R. Shantz of Calgary, and Mrs. Mary Trush of Vancouver, B.C.

An interesting episode in the life of Mr. Detwiler is copied from a report in the Waterloo Chronicle at the time he celebrated his 93rd birthday:

"Standing out in his memory of a very busy life in his pioneering venture as pastor and guiding light in the founding of Didsbury, Alberta, in 1894.

"At this time Rev. Mr. Detwiler had passed his 95th birthday, and his brother, D. B. Detwiler of Hydro Park, said to him, 'It is fifty for you to stand out in pioneer life when you are old enough to retire.'"

"Regardless of his age and the admonition of his brothers and friends, Mr. Detwiler accompanied the train of eight cars carrying the stock and equipment of the Mennonite settlement to the practically unbroken prairie.

"Their arrival was unheralded and the site of their future community was merely a flag stop on the railway line where a single sign on a telegraph pole indicated any who cared to read that this was Didsbury. With the exception of a large immigration shed the flat, bleak appearance of the prairie was unrelieved.

"Here the little party of Waterloo County pioneers spent the first night before starting in to break the ground for their future homes.

"Besides all the ordinary measures of pioneer life the party had to battle a prairie fire that threatened to wipe out their community.

"By the time the little community had become firmly established, Rev. Mr. Detwiler had taken over all the official duties of the town while the rest of the members attended to their farming. At this time he was clergyman, postmaster, letter-carrier, land guide and grocer.

"Rev. Mr. Detwiler is proud of his work in building the first church in Didsbury that is now the centre of a strong Mennonite conference."

This old house

by Tamara Collins

The province of Alberta is months away from celebrating its Centennial birthday, but a familiar Didsbury house just celebrated its 100th birthday, holding in it 100 years of memories.

As you drive down 20th Ave. and you reach 15th St. you may find your head automatically turning to look at Corner Studio, the attractive big white house to the north. This house has stood there before Alberta was born, and for those who have lived in Didsbury long enough, share memories of good times had at the house.

Present owner Ruth Jepson holds sacred the last piece of the wood put on the house when it was first built, and it reads: Lawrence Sick, April 27/05, Didsbury, N.W.T. Sick was the builder of the house in 1905.

The land the house rests on was first purchased in 1894 by Franklin A. Lackmen. In 1904 Lackmen sold the land to Frank Goard, and in 1905 Prosper Vernon bought the land and had the house built.

"I am the 13th person to own this house," said Jepson. "We bought it in May of 1989, and started redoing it the following August."

A double garage was the first thing to be added to the house, then Jepson's studio, where she could paint.

"For my studio I knew I wanted lots of windows and high ceilings," said Jepson. "I need lots of wall space for my paintings."

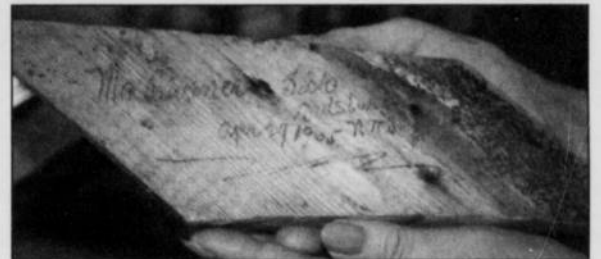

The main floor of the house remains the same shape as it was originally, with a dining room and a parlor. A window was added to the bay, and a wall that once stood between the two rooms was knocked down.

Bottom right: The piece of wood Jepson kept from when her house was first built.

"The house is a real english arrangement," said Jepson.

There was no basement originally, it was just earth and stone, a basement was put in.

The stairs remain the same, but the upstairs has two larger bedrooms, and a bathroom with a dressing room between one of the bedrooms and the bathroom, compared to the original three bedroom, no bathroom upstairs.

When the renovations were made to the house an extension was added, giving the house almost twice as much floor space.

If you drive down 20th Ave. you will notice that this house is much closer to the sidewalk than the other houses, that is because the streets were much narrower back then.

"Many people will remember this house, there has been many occasions here such as wedding receptions," said Jepson. "Ladies even used to wait here for babies to be born when the hospital was just down the road."

A couple years ago the house was also featured in a Heritage House Tour.

"I fell in love with the house the minute I saw it," said Jepson. "When the renovations were finished we held an open house for people to come and see it. People used to tell me to just bulldoze it down and rebuild a new house further back, but I didn't want to do that."

During the renovations old newspapers were discovered that were being used as insulation. These newspapers were all donated to the Didsbury Museum.

"There was pounds of nails we had to take out," said Jepson. "The house was covered in them."

The renovations were finally completed in January 1990.

"It is an ongoing process," said Jepson. "I really want to keep the mood of the house."

NOTES FROM NIGERIA

Living around the world

Dear Family and Friends,

It came up in a recent conversation that Janet and I have household stuff in four countries on three different continents. We have moved some kitchen things and clothes to Hungary in Europe.

We still have lots of stuff here in Nigeria in Africa. Then we have things in Canada and the U.S. for when we eventually settle back in North America. Oh, the joys of being a missionary!

We've had several rains and the grass has started to grow. It's now nice and cool and fresh. We sleep better at nights and have more energy during the days. We thank God for the rains.

A fellow missionary is unable to return to Nigeria because of medical problems. He had a pickup truck here that needed to be sold, so he asked his Nigerian helper to dispose of it.

This helper, Ezekiel, came to explain to me what was happening and to ask to phone the missionary in the States. Unfortunately I wasn't able to help him with the phone call we have no way of calling the States unless we go downtown.

However, I found out that he was going to be carrying almost $6000 worth of naira (local currency) in a local taxi.

This is downright dangerous and he was concerned about getting the money safely to its destination. I offered to drive him to and from the place where he would get the money.

I didn't realize that we would be going to Government House for Plateau State to get the money from the Deputy Governor! Oh well, in for a dime, in for a dollar.

I think we could still be at the Office of Protocol by the main gate if Ezekiel's cousin hadn't phoned the Deputy Governor on his cell phone.

Eventually we got in, never did see the Deputy Governor, but got the money and had the papers signed. We got the money safely to its destination.

Last week was also the performance of the spring musical here at Hillcrest. The dress rehearsal was Wednesday night.

Janet went on Thursday night because the leading lady, Eliza, in My Fair Lady is teaching Sunday School with Janet, and Janet is fairly close to her.

I had a Bible study or I probably would have gone also. Then we both went Friday night and enjoyed it very much.

The major drawback to going on Saturday night is that they have all of the thank-you's and so on after the play and it gets pretty late.

Saturday afternoon we had our first send forth organized by the Baptists but open to people in the Hillcrest community. There was a fairly good turnout and we didn't cry or anything.

We know that it will be difficult to say good-bye finally, but we are inviting people to come and visit us when we get to Hungary.

We expect to be in Canada from the beginning of August until the middle of January. We would like to visit many of you.

The plan is to be in Ontario from the middle of October until the beginning of December. Please let us know when it would work to speak in your church, or to your group, or just to visit with you.

Sincerely,
Dan for the Snayers

Preelection fever heating up

by Dan Singleton

Wild Rose MP Myron Thompson has joined his fellow Conservative MPs in saying he now plans to do everything in his power to topple the ruling Liberals, sending voters back to the polls as soon as possible.

"The gloves are off and anything can happen," said Thompson. "They (Liberals) are doing everything they can do to block us from bringing a confidence motion, and we're doing everything we can to try and get one in."

That's the political strategy that is involved.

"We've got experts in place in parliamentary procedures that are going to try and work out a way we can do it. The Liberals are going to work constantly to block us."

Shannon Nelles, the newly acclaimed NDP candidate in Wild Rose, says the Conservatives, including MP Thompson, should do more to make the current minority government work, instead of fighting to topple the Liberals.

"The Liberals are innocent until proven guilty," said Nelles. "Let the Gomery Inquiry come out. Canadians are not ready for an election at this point. In the meantime, let us focus on the issues, affordable housing, the environment, high tuitions. Let's show Canadians that we are working for them as they elected us to do. Let's get something done."

A Conservative attempt to force a non-confidence vote on May 5 was ruled out of order by the Speaker of the House.

The party's next chance to force a non-confidence vote could come May 18 during a so-called opposition day, when the Conservatives can set the agenda for the House and bring in a motion.

"If they bring the budget in sooner (before May 18), then we can possibly have a vote on the budget and make that a confidence vote," said MP Thompson.

Prime Minister Martin has said Canadians don't want to go to the polls before the Gomery Inquiry report is released, perhaps in November or December.

The Gomery Inquiry is looking into the controversial federal sponsorship program. The Auditor General says as much as $100 million may have been misspent or even stolen from that taxpayer funded program, designed to bolster the federalist cause in Quebec.

Testimony at the inquiry over the past months has alleged a link between Liberal party insiders and the missing money.

Following a caucus meeting last week, the opposition Conservatives said they will try to bring down the government as soon as possible. Tory leader Stephen Harper said his party, with 99 seats in the House, will no longer support the government.

"We can't support its programs, we can't support a government that is mired in this kind of corruption. I should face the House of Commons in a vote at the earliest opportunity. To do otherwise would be to unnecessarily delay an election into the summer," said Harper.

"I have met very, very few people in the last couple of weeks who think we can support the government in its current state with its current programs. Let's have the vote now and get it over with."

Harper's comments came days after the Liberals and NDP reached an agreement to exchange NDP support for the budget in return for more social spending.

While an election has yet to be called by the government or forced by the opposition, MP Thompson says he hopes the next campaign, whenever it does come, will centre on the issue of government integrity.

"A big number of people in my riding have made one comment to me. They say, policies are great, we assume that every party is going to put a policy platform together to do what they think is best for Canada, but will you guarantee us that you will be honest and have some integrity?"

"What they want is honesty and integrity, and my word is I will give every ounce of my energy to see to it that that is exactly what happens. That we get checks and balances in place, that we make those democratic reforms that make it essentially that each and every penny is accounted for in this government."

NDP candidate Nelles was acclaimed as her party's candidate on May 1.

An Airdrie resident, Nelles, 25, says she plans to run a campaign focused not on fighting alleged corruption, but rather as a "strong advocate for issues affecting youth, women, the environment, affordable housing and education."

"The NDP is more concerned with having the current Parliament address pressing environmental issues than spending time trying to force a national vote," she said.

"The NDP is working towards action. Jack Layton (NDP leader) and today's NDP present a Kyoto plan cutting pollution. We need to support renewable sources of energy, efficient ways of transportation, and to make these options viable for consumers."

While the Liberals have not come out with specific campaign strategies, in the last election they fought the campaign on social issues such as same-sex marriage and immigration, painting the Conservatives as hostile to minority rights.

Meanwhile, asked to comment on a Round Up survey last week that found that less than half of local respondents want an election this spring, Thompson said, "I think if you were simply to ask any Canadian at any given time do you want an election, I think we know what the answer will be, nobody likes an election."

"But they must understand that we have a government that is in place that is corrupt to no end, that the Adscam (a term used by Liberal critics to describe the sponsorship scandal) is the tip of the iceberg, and that there is going to be more to come."

"While we wait this particular government is in charge of spending up to $300 million a day and most of the expenditure for that kind of money still doesn't have checks and balances in place to make sure this money is honestly doing what it is secured to do. You can't allow a government with this reputation to stay in power. It just can't be allowed."

Thompson says his campaign workers have all the campaign signs and literature ready to be distributed throughout the riding.

"We have already made the preparations and we are ready to roll," he said.

"The garages are full from the last election."

The NDP will be ready for the campaign once the election is called, says Nelles.

Arbor Day, a time to reminisce

Lori O'Donahue

For Trees will be celebrating 100 years of Arbor Fest in Alberta on May 18th, at the Aspen Ridge Lodge.

The celebration, which starts at 2 p.m. will include the planting of a new tree at the Lodge, donated by a member who used to live here, in memory of her parents the Plamondons.

"We will be planting the tree on the north west side of the building by the garden shed," said Lori O'Donahue, Activity coordinator and recreation therapist at the Lodge. "For Trees will be donating the labor to plant it."

The tree to be donated is believed to be a Mayday, but details of the event are still being fine tuned.

"We are going to bring the residents out to watch the planting," said O'Donahue. "Arbor Day is not as big as it used to be, and the seniors will remember that. This is a great opportunity for them to reflect on the past Arbor Days and talk about how things used to be."

recalls the residents were planting and they were sharing many stories about worms, and how things were different.

"It was really neat to hear," said O'Donahue. "It is nice for the residents to be able to reflect and tell stories about the past. They are the ones with all the stories, and I think this is a great way to honor the day."

DHS Homecoming

This Centennial year was chosen for the 9th Didsbury High School (DHS) reunion for students who graduated from the school in the 1930s and 1940s.

The celebrations will start on September 2nd and go on until the 4th. Friday morning, the 2nd, an art display by award winning DHS artists will open at the Library, which will continue till the end of September.

On both Friday and Saturday all those registered are invited to the 5-0 Club for visiting and to enjoy some singing until 3 p.m. A memorial for former classmate Eldon Foote will be held at the Eldon Foote Hall on the Saturday morning from 10 a.m. to 12 a.m.

Saturday afternoon scheduled tours will visit the Didsbury Museum, enjoy a historical walk and well remembered historical churches. That Saturday night a banquet will be held at the Memorial Complex.

"Sunday morning they will enjoy a morning brunch at the Complex and then Sunday afternoon a concert at Zion Evangelical Missionary Church," said Erna McCafferty, member of the planning committee.

The first reunion was held in 1961. "Efforts are being made to coincide with plans made by the Town of Didsbury," said McCafferty. "The invitation has been extended to all former students who are interested."

All former students who wish to attend must register with Joyce Mullen at 335-3886, or you can write to Box 820, Didsbury, for a registration form.

Grizzlys welcome new coach

Kevin Hasselberg,
Olds Grizzlys Coach

The Olds Grizzlys will have a new coach this year, Kevin Hasselberg from Didsbury.

Hasselberg has been an assistant coach for the Grizzlys for the past three and a half years. He moved here from Fort McMurray four years ago after he heard a coaching position would be opening up down the road.

"I have been working for this for the past four years," said Hasselberg. "I moved here just for the hockey."

The Grizzlys are presently in their off season, which is when they train and prepare for the season.

"We keep in touch, we get together for team building," said

Hasselberg. "We are going to have a lot of returning players next year so we have the potential for a really good year."

The season will start at the beginning of September following the Grizzlys' camp in August.

Brett Cox has been the coach of the team for the past five years, and now Hasselberg is excited for the opportunity.

"I think I am still young enough to connect well with the players," said Hasselberg. "This has been my goal for a long time."

In the future Hasselberg would like to coach at the national level.

"My driving force is to help these players succeed," said Hasselberg.

At four years old Hasselberg started playing, and at 21 he started coaching.

"It was a real natural transition for me to go from playing to coaching," said Hasselberg. "The first team I coached was the Adam AA Barrins from Fort McMurray, and now there are kids from that team playing in this league."

This year they are expecting about 80 boys to attend the Grizzlys' camp, and only 22 will make the team.

"We pride ourselves on having players from in and around Olds on the team, it is nice to have local guys to watch," said Hasselberg.

The assistant coach this year will be Jason Stephens, and someone else who is yet to be selected. "This is a huge commitment and the most difficult part is the time I have to spend away from my family," said Hasselberg. "The support they offer me is very important. It is also important to be surrounded by quality people like all the volunteers that help us out. They really take a lot of the stress away." On an average the team will be playing two games a week, and triple that many practices.

"I have wanted this for a long time," said Hasselberg. "I am so excited for this season I wish it started right away, and I know the players feel the same way."

Condo manager upset over trees

These trees were planted for the Didsbury Condo Association last week, after Town Council agreed to plant them, but condo manager Joy Long is very upset over their size.

by Tamara Collins

The Town of Didsbury agreed to purchase 14 poplar trees for the Didsbury Condo Association, after Condo manager Joy Long complained to council that the light from the Town Shop was bothering the families living there, and that they did not like to look at the garbage all the time, now the trees are planted and Long is more upset than ever.

For Trees arrived Thursday afternoon with the trees to plant, and when Long saw them she became very upset.

"The trees are just twigs sticking out of the ground, they are not eight feet like we were suppose to get," said Long. "I am just so upset, I promised these people we would have beautiful trees blocking all that garbage."

Director of Operations Chris McKenna and Darcy Austin from the Town met with Long on December 22, 2004 to come up with a solution to the problem.

Both parties agreed that installing enough trees to cover 130 linear feet along the Town Shop's fence would be a good solution.

They also agreed that the Town would pay for the trees and the Condo Assoc. would pay for the trees to be planted and remove the fence blocking the access to the area.

Town Council passed the motion that they purchase 14 eight foot poplar trees at a cost of $60 per tree for a total of $840.

"The trees she got are the trees we agreed on," said McKenna. "The Town was not obligated to do anything, we were trying to do a good thing."

According to Gerard Fournier the trees never should have been planted there in the first place.

"The soil there is terrible, only these trees would survive there, and only if they are taken care of," said Fournier. "This is not a good place for trees, especially when we are using taxpayers money to buy them. I would much rather see some nice trees go into a beautiful park, than in a back alley next to a parking lot."

The trees that were planted are three year old poplars, and they range in height from six to eight feet.

"The height is not even an issue, she was expecting these trees to instantly cover all that space, it was unreasonable. These are bare root trees, they can't be planted with leaves," said Fournier.

"She did not even ask if it was a good place for the trees, she just demanded them. I feel really bad for those trees."

According to McKenna

these trees were never going to be a total blockage.

"They are going to grow four to six feet this year and then hopefully she will be happy," said McKenna.

Fournier is expecting the trees to even grow within the next few weeks, as long as they are watered.

"There are 24 families living here and this is what they have to look at everyday," said Long.

"It just is not fair. We even had people who are renting here come out and help tear down the fence because we were all so excited for these trees. I am just so upset, I can't believe they spent $60 for one of these."

Dear Editor,

I am writing in response to the letter published in the March 16, 2005 issue of the Didsbury Review entitled "Local Stores Should Not Remain Open On Sundays". Truly our society has become one that demands we get what we want when we want it. Why must we have it on Sunday? Can't we wait until Monday? I believe that our customers will remain loyal to our town because we treat them with true sincerity and respect, not because we stay open on Sundays. Let's show some respect for the employees by allowing them one day off to be with family, relax and refresh. I personally enjoy driving through Didsbury on the way home from church and not seeing a single car down town. If stores were open that most likely wouldn't be the case.

Our small town has values. That's one of our main attractions. What if we were to loose that attraction?

Just think, our town is 100 years old. One hundred years ago life was fine. No-body died from the lack of tooth paste or mouthwash because stores were closed on Sunday. What's changed since then?

A guy was sleeping and in the middle of the night he heard Fwump! Fwump! Fwump! and he said what's that noise!? Then he found out that it was his washing machine so he said I need to sell this thing. So he opened a garage sale and tried to sell his washing machine for $145.00. When the day was over he still hadn't sold that washing machine. So he went to bed with the washing machine outside. He went to bed and the next day the washing machine was gone. All his money was gone too so he had to get a job @ the picford group and got enough money to buy a new washing machine that was quiet. So he said good day to his company and said something bad about his boss and his boss said, hit the road! So he went home and told his wife that he was fired. So he had start a new job at the washing machine shop. He sold a very loud washing machine that sounded familiar.

Mountain View, Rocky View and Clearwater Counties Have a New Hometeam!

You won't find them on a ball field or an indoor court. But you could find them looking at your furnace or in your attic. It's a new company that specializes in whole house inspections and they are appropriately called "The Home Team".

You probably won't see them in action until you buy or sell a home. Homebuyers call them in to inspect a house before the deal closes. They want to be certain that the house they're buying doesn't have some hidden secrets. The Home Team Inspection Service will examine your roof and gutters; heating and cooling systems; kitchen appliances; plumbing, electrical fixtures; switches and receptacles; and basement complete Whole Home Inspection. Over 400 items are inspected.

In 2003, over 5.8 million were sold and more than 85% were inspected. Many corporations and municipalities mandate the homes be inspected before the deal can close.

Gerry Barstead is the owner of the HomeTeam Inspection Service in the Mountain View, Rocky View and Clearwater area. He heads up a team of inspectors, each with expertise in different areas of home construction and mechanical systems.

Gerry Barstead recognizes how important a quality and thorough home inspection is to someone who is about to make the largest investment of their life. "We are happy to give a free estimatime to anyone who calls and we'll send them a brochure about the Company. There's no obligation said Gerry Barstead.

The HomeTeam may be reached at 403-556-7932, Fax 403-556-1575, Email ht572@hometeaminspection.com

"This is no 9:00 to 5:00 job. We have to inspect a home when the new owner is available and sometimes the Real Estate Agents want to be there too. That means we have to be ready to make an inspection at any time, almost any day of the week. Of course, our inspections are made during the day so we can see the roof, outside fixtures and the condition of the exterior elevation. Many of our inspections are made on short notice, because the sale can't close until the house is inspected and both parties are anxious to complete the transaction."

Part of the company concept, Gerry Barstead said, is saving the Real Estate Agent and the home buyer time and effort in a quick turnaround. "A lot of our inspections are made on short notice. In a lot of cases, there can't be a closing until the home is inspected." With both parties eager to complete the transaction, Gerry Barstead said "That's where the Home Team comes in."

The HomeTeam's number is 403-556-7932, located at RR 3, Site 9, Box 7, Olds and may be reached 6 days a week from 8:30 a.m. to 9:00 p.m. and will be operational beginning May 16, 2005.

Letters that followed in subsequent issues showed that Didsburians appreciate a day away from work, a day to visit with friends and family and to stroll the streets of town unfettered by the hustle and bustle of a "sales day". This ability to stroll in peace is one of those wonderful features that makes Didsbury unique.

This is also true of the downtown parking issue. One of the things that makes Didsbury unique, or rather, makes Didsburians unique, is their desire to park near the store they intend to shop in. Those who shop in Calgary don't have this luxury, but those who choose to shop at home in Didsbury, do. It is, in part, what makes Didsbury special; it's one of those lifestyle choices that makes shopping in Didsbury such a treat, and the quality of life in Didsbury so respected and attractive to others.

Please remember, Mr. Brown; Didsburians don't want to be like Calgarians. They want to be themselves. Adequate downtown parking is a realistic expectation of living and shopping in a small town like Didsbury.

Kathleen Windsor

Cochrane cowboys hit paydirt in Leduc

by Barry Williams

Every spring cowboys mount their horses and ride into Leduc hoping to strike it rich; not in the oil patch but in the rodeo arena.

Two Cochrane cowboys, saddle bronc rider Billy Richards, and steer wrestler Baillie Milan hit paydirt at the Leduc Black Gold Rodeo pocketing more than a $1,000 each.

Richards, the 2001 World Saddle Bronc Rookie of the Year, was a perfect gentleman aboard Northcott Rodeo's Miss Conduct spurring out a 79 to pocket $1,196 in earnings. With a ride worth 78, Beau Waters placed second in the event worth $989. Two riders, Jim Berry and Josh Harden split the 3/4 spot with rides of 76 worth $680 apiece.

In the bareback riding competition veteran Davey Shields Jr. tucked $1,041 into his pockets as a result of an 82 ride aboard Northcott Rodeo's Kahk High. A two-time Canadian Bareback Champion and the 2003 Guy Weadick Memorial Award winner wasn't challenged as Travis Whiteside and Alan Dacyk finished a distant 2/3 with marked rides of 78 worth $772 apiece.

In the bull riding event, Boyd Patton was having a blast aboard Northcott Rodeo's Ghetto Blaster as he scored an 89 to capture the competition.

For his eight second effort, Patton won $1,382. Caroline bull rider, Chris Hansen and Tyler Pankewitz split the second rung with scores of 84 worth $1,161.

Bulldogger Milan pocketed $1,813 with a lightning quick time of 3.7 seconds.

Ponoka's, Scott Wyzykoski placed second with a time of 3.9 seconds and Justin Guenther finished third in a time of 4.2 seconds.

Veteran roper, Marty Becker, the 1998 Canadian tie-down champion, was the quickest cowboy with a lasso flanking his calf in 8.1 seconds pocketing $1,529. Another wily veteran, Bruce H. Robinson, with a tie of 8.3 seconds took home second place winnings of $1,329. Capturing third place with a time of 8.4 seconds and winnings of $1,130 was Curtis Cassidy.

It was a real horse race around the barrels as Jodie-Lynn circled the course in 13.30 seconds while Tara Muldoon-Russ finished with a time of 13.32 seconds.

At the Staveley Indoor Rodeo Jim Berry won the saddle bronc event with an 82 ride aboard Vold Rodeo's Sky High. Splitting the 2/3 spot with rides of 79 apiece were Ross Kreutzer and Dustin Flundra.

Two riders, Monty Koopman and Darren Schultz split the bareback braggin honors with rides of 80 points apiece. Koopman spurred out his win aboard Vold Rodeo's Blizzard while Schultz rode Vold Rodeo's MF4 to the pay window.

Empress bull rider, Come Bouvier, was as solid as a rock in the rodeo infield as he marked an impressive 92 on Vold Rodeo's The Rock to walk away with $1,150 in earnings. Jason Finkbeiner posted an 87 to claim second place.

Shawn Williamson won the tie-down roping flanking his calf in 8.2 seconds with BJ Zieffle placing second with a time of 8.4 seconds.

Three runs in the steer wrestling competition were marked in 4.0 seconds or less. Posting the quickest time amongst the bulldoggers was Chancey Woods with a lightning quick time of 3.6 seconds. Joe Butterfield completed the feat in 3.8 seconds and Dallas Frank posted a time of 3.9 seconds.

Around the barrels, Maria Gee, of Stanford, MT was the fastest cowgirl with a time of 13.94 seconds. Innisfail cowgirl, Cheryl Daines was a close second with a run of 14 seconds flat.

Riley Wilson teamed up with Kevin Schreiner to win the team roping event.

This coming weekend, the hands continue to travel through British Columbia as they ride into Princeton to compete in the Princeton Stampede.

On the May long weekend, they will be participating in Cloverdale, Luxton and Falkland.

QUESTION: What is the most common error made by parents in disciplining their children?

DR. DOBSON: I would say it is the inappropriate use of anger in attempting to manage boys and girls. It is one of the most ineffective methods of attempting to influence human beings (of all ages). Unfortunately, most adults rely primarily on their own emotional response to secure the cooperation of children.

One teacher said on a national television program: "I like being a professional educator, but I hate the daily task of teaching. My children are so unruly that I have to stay mad at them all the time just to control the classroom."

How utterly frustrating to be required to be mean and angry to do a job year after year. Yet many teachers (and parents) know of no other way to manage children. Believe me, it is exhausting -- and it doesn't work!

Consider your own motivational system and response to the anger of others. Suppose you are driving your automobile home from work this evening and you exceed the speed limit by 40 miles per hour. Standing on the street corner is a lone police officer who has not been given the means to arrest you. He has no squad car or motorcycle; he wears no badge, carries no gun and can write no tickets. All he is commissioned to do is stand on the curb and scream insults as you speed past. Would you slow down just because he turns red in the face and shakes his fist in protest? Of course not! You might wave to him as you streak by, but his anger would achieve little except to make him appear comical and foolish.

On the other hand, nothing influences the way you drive quite like seeing a black-and-white vehicle in hot pursuit with 19 red and blue lights flashing in the rearview mirror. When you pull your car over to the curb, a dignified, courteous officer approaches the window. He is 6 foot 9 inches tall, has a voice like the Lone Ranger and carries a gun on his right hip.

"Sir," he says firmly but politely, "our radar unit indicates you were traveling 65 miles per hour in a 25-mile-per-hour-zone. May I see your driver's license, please?" He opens his leather-bound book of citations and leans toward you. He has revealed no hostility and offers no criticism, yet you immediately go to pieces. You fumble nervously to locate the license with that ugly picture on it. Why are your hands moist and your mouth dry? Why is your heart thumping in your throat? Because the course of action that John Law is about to take is notoriously unpleasant. It is that action which dramatically affects your future driving habits. Alas, children think and respond in much the same way you do.

Disciplinary action influences behavior; anger does not. When it comes to boys and girls, in fact, I am convinced that adult anger incites a malignant kind of disrespect in their minds. They perceive that our frustration is caused by our inability to control the situation. We represent justice to them, yet we're on the verge of tears as we flail the air with our hands and shout empty threats and warnings. Let me ask: Would you respect a superior court judge who behaved that way in administering legal justice? Certainly not. This is why the judicial system is carefully designed to appear objective, rational and dignified.

I am not recommending that parents and teachers conceal their legitimate emotions from their children. I am not suggesting that we be like bland and unresponsive robots who hold everything inside. There are times when our kids become insulting or disobedient and our irritation is entirely appropriate. In fact, it should be revealed, or else we appear artificial and insincere. My point is that anger often becomes a tool used for the purpose of influencing behavior. It is ineffective and can be damaging to the relationship between generations. Instead, try taking action that your children will care about. Then administer it with "cool."

Want it? Find it. Get it! @ your library. Big city library service with small town atmosphere!

Didsbury Municipal Library - one of the oldest lending libraries in the province - has been providing services to the citizens of Didsbury and area since 1908. Located at 2033 19 Avenue, right next door to the Town Office, the library holds a vital collection of over 17,000 items from popular interest to current events to children's videos.

The Didsbury Municipal Library is a proud member of the Parkland Regional Library System and that enables us to provide quality and professional library services with locally hired staff. As a resource sharing partner with 43 other public libraries within Parkland our library patrons have immediate access to over one million books, CD's and videos. Check us out on our web site <http://dml.prl.ab.ca>, where you will find essential links to information and research; and you can search the catalogue, reserve and renew your books.

Didsbury Municipal is also a member of The Alberta Library which means that your borrower's card is accepted at public and academic libraries throughout the province or you can request books to be sent here to the library or to your home address.

Need to learn how to use a computer? The Didsbury Library organizes workshops and classes with a qualified instructor to teach you computer basics, Internet savvy, and popular applications. As well, library staff offer free tutorials on the library's catalogue, databases searches, surfing the web, and setting up free email accounts. We have 8 public access computer workstations available every day for one-hour sessions at no charge.

At the Didsbury Municipal Library we still value the more traditional roles for a public library. Volunteers are welcome - they help with special projects and with daily tasks such as shelving books and providing outreach services. We offer sessions of weekly story times for pre-schoolers and host Mountain View Family Literacy programs such as Mother Goose and Share the Stories supported by a colourful collection of picture books. From there, the children move on to first chapter books in our Juvenile section and then to our developing Teen Zone. Find information on everything from aardvarks to zambonis in our extensive non-fiction collection for all ages; visit here for a programmed author talk, a poetry reading, or an art exhibit; book meeting spaces for little or no charge; or just relax with the paper.

The library is open Tuesday through Saturday from 10 am to 5 pm and till 8 pm on Wednesdays and Thursdays. Phone 335-3142 for more information at Didsbury Five-0 Club

In lieu of gifts -

CARD OF THANKS

Through this thank you we hope to somehow convey how much each and everyone's caring meant to us. We would like to thank those who phoned, visited, sent flowers, plants, cards, food and helped us when we needed them. To the nurses, cleaning staff, kitchen staff and doctors of the Didsbury Hospital. We can never thank you enough for the last two weeks of Richie's life. You are incredible people. A last thank you to everyone who came to share in the celebration of Richie's life with Pastor Ian, Merelee and our family. We have made many new friends and reacquainted with many old. Each and everyone of you has truly touched our lives.
Karen, Rob & Lindsay, Brian & Raeann

OBITUARY

EHRET - Our sweetheart, Cliff J. Ehret went to be with his Lord on May 4, 2005 at the age of 51 years after a courageous journey with kidney cancer. Taken too soon, Cliff will be remembered as a loving and supportive husband, father, brother and friend. Cliff was strong in so many ways and could accept all that life brought his way with a shrug of his shoulders and a twinkle in his eye. He was a proud, patient and humble man who was passionate about life with his family and friends and was equally passionate about time in the wind on his Harley. Left to celebrate his life are his wife and friend Jody; son Chris and daughters Lisa Marie and Pamela Lee; 5 brothers, 3 sisters and numerous friends who completed Cliff's family. He will be dearly missed. Ride free Cliff. Funeral Services were held on Saturday, May 7, 2005 at 1:00 p.m. in the Hartmann Community Hall. Interment followed in the Didsbury Cemetery. Memorial tributes may be made directly to a trust fund in Cliff's honor c/o Jody Cowan. As a tribute to Cliff Ehret, a tree will be planted in the Heartland Tree Memorial Park, Olds. Heartland Funeral Services, Ltd., Olds, entrusted with arrangements.

Mountain View area Scouts awarded

Left: Didsbury leaders, Joyce Mullen, Lynn Samoisette and Joe Saad.
Right: Joyce Mullen receives her 60 year award.

Chinook Scouting Region held its Annual Honors & Awards ceremonies at the Glenmore Inn in Calgary, at which time, Scouters from the City of Calgary, & Southern Alberta gathered to receive recognition for their commitment to Scouting.

Mountain View Area Scouters who received awards were, Lynn Samoisette, 1st Didsbury Beavers, & Group Secretary, received her 20 year service pin & a Silver Chinook Council Recognition certificate. Lynn is also an adult trainer for the Area. Others from 1st Didsbury Group were: Scoutmaster Terry Laurin received the Bronze certificate, & Beaver leader Marilyn Laurin & Cub leader Lora Lee Lowther were presented with Silver certificates. Group Treasurer Angela Haskett received the Certificate of Commendation. Angela also serves part time with 1st Didsbury Cubs, and Joyce Mullen received her 60 year service pin. Joe Saad of 1st Didsbury Cubs received the Bar to his Medal of Merit. Joe has served in a multitude of roles in Mountainview Area, Camp Chief, Cuboree director, course director for advanced & Provincial courses to name a few, & is currently the Assistant Area Commissioner.

Scouter Nazir Manji of 1st Carstairs, was awarded the Medal of Merit for his work in Beavers, Cubs and Scouts & is now an Area Scouter, and finally, Mike Strachey of CasaLima in the Balzac area, received the Silver Acorn, the highest award a Scouter can receive in Canada outside of International Service.

He has been in Scouting for 21 years, has held positions in Cubs, Scouts and Venturers as well as in District before moving to positions in Central Region and later to Chinook Council. Mike currently holds positions of Mountain View Area Commissioner, trainer and public relations officer.

Following the Awards, a reception was held for the Scouters, their families and friends.

Master of ceremonies for the Ceremonies was Jeff Collins, host of CBC Calgary's "Homestretch". Guest speaker for the occasion was Martha Parker who had served for 16 years as the Executive director of Volunteer Calgary. Martha, along with Council member Grace Belzner & Linda Maki, presented the Scouting Awards.

Congratulations go to all these dedicated people, who serve the youth of our area.
